The residents of South Ninth-ave, especially the women, have been much frightened for several weeks by a mysterious figure descending and ascending through the branches of trees in the avenue. A complaint was made to the police on Saturday night, and chief Foley and some of the officers hid themselves to await the ghost. When it appeared, they made a rush and grabbed it. A dozen young men, hidden behind trees, took to their heels and ran, laughing, in all directions. The Chief and his assistants bravely placed the object under arrest, and took it to the station-house in the patrol wagon. The ghost was a "dummy," constructed from a dressmaker's form, which the boys had suspended from a limb of a tree. The "dummy" was so lifelike that some of the women who encountered it are suffering from prostration.

STATEN ISLAND HAPPENINGS.

The Supreme Court opened vesterday in Richmond, with Justice Samuel T. Maddox on the bench. mond, with Justice Same: 1. Mandata
The Grand Jury was sworn, with H. Guyon Clawson as foreman. The principal case heard was that of Thomas Colon, Andrew Anderson and Charles Olsen, owners of the oyster sloop Jessie, which was seized in August of last year and the owners arrested for alleged poaching on oyster beds in Prince's Bay. A verdict was secured by the men in their suit against State Protectors John W. Lisk and Edgar Hicks for $1,225. The law under which they were arrested was declared unconstitutional

The October Grand Jury will investigate three murder cases, including the case of Peter Lynch, of New-Brighton, who several weeks ago hacked of New-Brighton, who several weeks ago indeed his wife, Mary, to death and afterward attempted to kill himself by cutting his throat with a razor, and Conrad Hacelberg, who hast week shot and killed his friend. Thomas McSorley, at Prohibition Park and also tried to kill himself by cutting his throat. Both murderers now occupy beds alongside of each other at the Smith Infirmary, at New-Brighton. The third case is that of Pasquale Spirito, an Italian, who last summer atabbed Angelio Dougiano in a row at Tompkinsville. Spirito is locked up in the County Jail and was given an opportunity to escape several weeks ago when four prisoners gained freedom by cutting through the fron bars of the jail, but refused to go out. A case attracting considerable attention among the politicians is that of Joseph B. Pearse, jr. of Port Richmond, who is charged with having violated the primary election laws last month. District-Attorney George M. Pinney, jr., has applied to Governor Black for permission to convene an extraordinary term of court in November, as which time he intends to place three murderers on trial. It is to be hoped, though, that our people will never be driven from their homes here by the harsh action of Congress. This country is dear to our people. They bought and paid for it. The United States pledged its solemn yow that it should be the home of our people for all time, but it begins to look as if that pledge is to be broken. If we are forced to give up our lands and government, you may be sure we will place no further dependence on anything the United States may agree to do, but will place ourselves under the protection of a Government that has some regard for its treaty promises.
